CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

5.1 Conclusion

The findings of the study indicate that all of students reading comprehension difficulties analyzed in this study affect the students comprehension as a foreign language students. according to the data analysis results, the eleventh grade students at Senior High School 2 Muaro Jambi academic year 2023/2024 are having trouble understanding what they are reading. although the majority of students recognize the value of reading comprehension, they yet struggle greatly with it. This might occur as a result of children not receiving enough reading comprehension instruction.

Furthermore, based on the results of this study, the eleventh grade especially in class XI IPS 4 students at senior High School 2 Muaro Jambi have many difficulties in vocabulary, finding spesific information and making inferences. And The conclusion based on indicators can be concluded that students have difficulty in making inferences, identifying references, finding spesific information and the understanding meaning of word or vocabulary.

Students difficulties can also be brought on by their inability to focus, lack of enthusiasm in reading, ignorance of the text and tedious reading material. Teachers may also share some of the blame for these difficulties as they may not have given their students the reading comprehension instruction they require. It is true that the reading comprehension difficulties faced by students do not only come from students, but also from environment. Students must study and practice more to improve their ability in reading comprehension.
