This research is motivated by the forced withdrawal of fiduciary guarantee objects, particularly in the context of Law Number 8 of 1999 on Consumer Protection and Law Number 42 of 1999 on Fiduciary Guarantees. The research questions are: How is the legal protection for debtors against the forced withdrawal of fiduciary guarantee objects, and what legal remedies are available to debtors against such withdrawals? This study aims to understand and analyze the legal protection for debtors against the forced withdrawal of fiduciary guarantee objects. The research method used is normative juridical. The results conclude that the legal protection for debtors against forced withdrawals of fiduciary guarantee objects began with the issuance of Constitutional Court Decision Number 18/PUU-XVII/2019 dated January 6, 2020, which implicitly prohibits forced withdrawals of fiduciary guarantee objects unless there is a default and no agreement is reached between the parties, namely the debtor and the creditor. The execution process must be carried out in accordance with the execution of court decisions that have permanent legal force and/or conducted through an execution application in court.
